W. H. BOWER LOSES HIS AGED FATHER

Danville Paper Pays High Tribute To F. M. Bower Who Passed Away at Perryville

W. H. Bower, local L. & N. agent, has the sympathy of his many friends in the death of his father, Francis M. Bower, which occurred at his home at Perryville, Boyle county, Friday. The Danville Messenger has this about the death of the splendid old gentleman:

Francis Marion Bower was one of the best and most widely known citizens of Boyle county. He was a native of Tennessee and was born down there 77 years ago. He came to Kentucky with his parents in young manhood and located near Parksville. Mr. Bower was not born with a silver spoon in his mouth, naturally he was somewhat of a genius, was possessed of grit and determination. He was what we would term a self-made man. He believed that what was worth doing was worth doing well and was not long in demonstrating to those with whom he came in contact that intended to be a real man and do something worth while and all who knew him know he succeeded.

About fifty-five years ago he was happily married to Miss Mary Frances Cozatt. She was a wife in all the word means and to her he owed much in all his successes and in the rearing of a large family of children, who are numbered with the best people in the various communities they reside and are truly an honor to the memories of both the father and the mother. The mother died about three years ago. The family was ever one of the most devoted known.

Marion Bower, as he was known by his intimates, was for many years the undertaker at Parksville. He began when the walnut and poplar timber was plentiful and of the highest quality. For years he made many of the coffins used there. He also did all kinds of woodwork and was regarded as one of the best mechanics in Kentucky. Few knew Mr. Bower better than this reporter. We would not hold him up as a perfect man, as all of us, he had his faults, but they were few. We do not hesitate to say he was a good man, one of the most conscientious we ever saw. He detested show or false pretense. He was a member of the Christian church and for years was a deacon in Parksville Christian church until infirmities of age and afflictions prevented. His life was a busy one. We are sure the world is better by his having lived in it, and we believe all is well with his soul.

He is survived by four sons, all holding responsible positions with the L. & N. railroad. Mr. John A. Bower, of Paris; Mr. William Bower, of Richmond; Mr. Walter M. Bower, of Parksville; and Mr. Howard Bower, of Winchester; four daughters, Mrs. Samuel H. Westerfield, of Parksville; Mrs. H. M. Pittman, of Perryville; Mrs. D. M. Humble, of Winchester; and Mrs. H. P. Wilson, of Woodlawn; also thirty-two grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

After a brief funeral service conducted by Elder Geo. W. Mills at the Pittman home at about 10 o'clock Saturday morning the remains were taken to the Parksville cemetery, his old home, and buried beside the grave of his wife.

HI JOHNSON STIRS 'EM UP AT M'KEE

Several Ex-Officials of Jackson County Are Fined On Charges of Drunkenness

The London Sentinel tells of the wholesale drive on liquor makers, sellers, and drinkers by Judge Hiram Johnson at the present term of circuit court in McKee, Jackson county. The Sentinel says in part:

The first week of the Jackson circuit court has been a busy one, according to reports brought to us from McKee. The entire penal docket of 496 cases had been cleaned up when court adjourned Saturday evening, and besides one felony case was tried, when a second offense moonshiner was given a penitentiary sentence. One hundred and fifty cases were tried out in court with less than a dozen acquittals and the average verdict in liquor cases was $5.00 and 60 days, and for drunkenness $50 and 10 days and for concealed deadly weapons $75 and 30 days in jail. In Jackson, as in Laurel, Judge Johnson is applying peace bonds, and in all the peace bonds have amounted to more than $50,000. Seventy persons have been committed to jail.

Among the trials were a number of former officers, charged with drunkenness in office. An ex-sheriff was fined $450, and an ex-deputy sheriff was fined $100. An ex-county judge was fined $700 for a like offense.

Mrs. Hulda Hurst, wife of Charley Hurst, was fined $400 and 10 days in jail for aiding her husband in the operation of a moonshine still and he is a fugitive from justice. Hurst was a member of the grand jury at the recent session of federal court in London.

Probably the action of the court causing the most comment was the dismissal from the grand jury of a member who placed himself on the stand as a character witness of a well-known moonshiner, and in other ways showed his sympathy for the law breakers. The court told the man, whose name our informant did not know, that no man friendly to the moonshiners' interests or who would volunteer to be a character witness against a notorious moonshiner, could sit on a jury in his court, and ordered the sheriff to summons another juror to take his place. Several hundred indictments have already been returned by the grand jury.

The county officers in Jackson are showing their colors by standing by Judge Johnson and doing all in their power to rid their county of the liquor and pistol curse. On the docket to be tried this week are two murder cases.

Another Verse For P. A. C. Infirmary Bazaar

The small aprons sent to distant and generous friends brought back more than $50 in their pockets to the bazaar fund. One more response appears below:

My Dear Mrs. Bennett—

This little apron I return to you, For that is what you asked me to do, In the little pocket you will see Four pennies more than thirty-three.

Nor did I let the measure pinch, As my waist I measured inch by inch, Instead, had you asked I measure my heart.

'Twould overflow as by Cupid's dart With loving interest for that first day Richmond received the memorial to Patti A. Clay.

Pause in your work, as do I to pen it, To honor Mrs. Jason Walker and Mrs. Same Bennett.

Pioneers in the Infirmary's infant life, Whilst passing through many a struggle and strife, They work and begged and prayed for years, For that which now, thank God, appears— A City and County-wide recognition— Of a proper place for nurse and physician.

To minister to sufferers in a modern way, Through Brutus' grand memorial to Patti A. Clay.

—Clarence E. Woods, Mayor of Richmond, 1906-1910.

EASTER BAZAAR IS ANOTHER SUCCESS

The annual Easter Bazaar for the benefit of the P. A. C. Infirmary, was held Saturday in the Masonic Temple. It was an exceptionally pleasant and successful one. While there was not as much realized as last year, it was just as great a success inasmuch as the citizens of the town and county contributed just as liberally as in previous years to the various booths and bought so generously that they were all sold out by two o'clock, the difference, of course, being in the depreciation of values.

The official board of the infirmary felt very much gratified over the outcome and wishes to express its deepest appreciation and thanks to each one who assisted in any way.

Two features of entertainment during the lunch hour were the sale at auction of a ton of coal donated by W. W. Broadbuss, and bought by Paul Burnam for $12, and given to the infirmary, and the sale of a beautiful pink corsage given by Mr. Pontrich of the Richmond Greenhouses and bought by Harvey Chenault. Pushin's Fashion Shop sent a check for $10; Mr. Walsh, the Louisville tailor, a check for $15; Jacob A. Schultz, of Louisville, a beautiful box of flowers, and nearly every wholesale and retail business in Richmond sent in contributions of sugar, flour, and other salable articles. Special mention should be made of the liberal donation of over 40 dressed hens sent in by the Waco ladies alone. The following is only a rough estimate of the receipts but a complete statement will be published later:

Lunch table $340.87
Household table 185.00
Souvenir 48.16
Candy 81.00
Baby table 69.00

HOW MANY OF THESE DID MADISON GET?

(By Associated Press) Frankfort, Ky., April 10.—Kentucky hunters, during the past years have paid most of the expenses of the Game and Fish Commission, although most of the money has been spent for the benefit of fishermen. This year, however, the commission, of which Dr. R. G. Tuttle is executive agent, has changed the method of distribution of funds and is spending a more equitable amount on game.

Chief Warden, C. J. Meredith, has just returned from the Mexican border where he bought 6,600 Mexican bob-white quail and shipped them to 112 of the 120 counties of the state. Last year 1,100 of these quail were bought and distributed. Every bird was inspected by an official of the United States Department of Animal Husbandry.

The quail cost the state $150 each and were evenly divided as to sexes. Officials estimate that, with normal mortality among the birds and a good hatching season at least 50,000 young birds should be added to Kentucky's stock by fall. Ordinarily a quail hen will lay an average of twelve eggs and all will hatch, it was said.

The total cost of this year's addition to the game bird supply was approximately $11,000, 1,100 birds bought last year cost $2.00 each.

The Mexican quail is identical with the native bird, according to Dr. Tuttle, except in size, the southern bird being slightly smaller. They soon "breed in" with the natives, however, and in a few seasons attain full size.

A Shrine Club was organized at London Saturday at a luncheon at the Hotel London, with Richard Young, president, and M. A. Wilson, secretary.
